BAND STORY

I have been working "behind the scenes" in Christian Music for almost 20 years. We were one of the first bands out there to have a Web Page, e-mail notification of concerts, computerized fan sign up (we brought a laptop to concerts for fans to enter their info) and a Band Newsletter. I wrote a basic program that kept track of things for the band (where they were playing, who to contact, donations, places to play (and places to never play again), call backs, song lists, Booking info, etc).

We've started Christian Coffee Houses in California, Ohio and Maryland (which "spawned" more Christian Coffee House - we were their "template"). We've run sound, video taped, done photo shoots and assisted in setting up concert "events". In this time we managed to raise a beautiful young lady to adulthood and see her marry a fine Christian young man, get a Bachelors Degree and give us two beautiful grandsons and two gorgeous granddaughters. God blessed our family as we have followed where ever He lead us.

Happy Memorial Day - Our Hero (For Quincy Sr)

The sky is clear blue, the sun is bright, and a cool breeze gently lifts the leaves on the trees lining main street. It is a perfect day for the parade. Planes fly by in the "Missing Man" Formation leaving their white trails behind. On his porch the old man waits. He wasn't able to participate in the parade this year. His spirit is with the men and women who still can walk that route proudly wearing their uniforms. He is hoping that they remind everyone of what this day means for them, for him, and for the millions of others who have paid a price for their freedom.

He can hear the faint sound of the band playing the "Star Spangled Banner". He sits straighter as a swell of pride rises within him. He prepares to stand in honor of "Old Glory" and all those people left behind in the battlefields around the world. They come closer and he starts to rise painfully to his feet. He believes that a few moments of pain is a small price to pay to honor those brave soldiers, and their families, past and present.

His son, daughter-in-law, and his granddaughter join him, standing with pride next to their brave hero. They have seen the price he has paid, physically and emotionally. They've watched those wounds take their toll year after year. He has taught them an unforgettable lesson. They will never take freedom lightly. They will always hold it as a fragile precious gift given at a huge price.

For them Memorial Day is not merely a day of barbecues, picnics and parades. It will always be a day of remembrances to be passed down from generation to generation.

(Written By Bonnie Follweiler in honor of our Memorial Day Hero lovingly known as the "Good Old Boy". He has passed away since then so, until we see him again, he is our "Missing Man". We are the proud family of Quincy Follweiler Sr.)

Who said things slowed down as we get older?

Oh Boy, I feel like I'm living in a whirlwind!! So here is how my life has "slowed down" as I get older - ROFL - By the way, all this has happened in the last couple of months . . .

Ok, so now I have a 2 month old granddaughter to join my 4 1/2 year old grandson, and my 1 year old grandson!!! They're in denial but she does have red in her hair. I was able to be in the room when she was born and she looks just like her mommy did at that age. . . .

Then, a month later, my son-in-law and my Daughter moved to Tennessee with my grandkids. They kind of objected to leaving them behind for us - I don't know why not!! ;-) Quincy was hired by Valley as the Associate Pastor of Worship and Media *quite a mouthful, huh). He is working on the sound, sound board training, and stage lights right now.
